JOE BERNSTEIN BESTED BY CHAM-PION YOUNG CORBETT.

His Hand.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 16.—Young Corbett, the champion feather weight pugilist of the world, was awarded the decision of the world, who was a to be a possible to the world t over Joe Bernstein, of New York, "the Ghetto champion," before the Eureka Athletic Club to-night in Music Hall. The men were to have boxed ten rounds to a decision at catch weights. Bernstein was in the pink of condition and weighed in this afternoon at 1241/2 pounds. The champion looked as though he had not trained an clined to give his weight. With the call of time the men went at it hammer and tongs. The New York boy was the favorite with the 3,500 spectators, and his every telling blow was cheered to the echo. Bernstein in the third round landed a right swing | to 248. which opened the Denver boy's left eye and throughout the battle the claret flowed freely from the wound.

After five rounds of sparring the champion went after Bernstein and a succession of rushes followed. He found that the New Yorker gave as good as he received and showed no inclination to shirk. At the end of the seventh round Bernstein called Referee Joe Pollock to his corner and showed him that a small bone in his left hand was broken and Bernstein's seconds threw up pended by a vote of 341 to 51. At the opening of the house Premier Balfour moved that the remainder of the session be entirely devoted to government business, which, he explained, would consist mainly of the discussion of the education and London water bills, while the Indian budget, Uganda railroad, sugar bounties and the supply vote would enable the procedure to be carried out. The Transvaal, he added, would also require atten-

James Bryce, leading the Liberals, in the absence of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, made a mild protest, and then came a storm. Patrick O'Brien, sitting in the place usually occupied by John Redmond, the Irish leader in the House, asked that at least a day between now and Christmas be devoted to the discussion of the serious state of affairs in Ireland.

Mr. Balfour replied that if the request for such an opportunity came from the Liberal leaders the government would grant it, but they could not notice it from the Irish party. William O'Brien thereupon made an impassioned speech, warning the house that Ireland was on the verge of revolt. The Constitution, he said, was practically sus-pended, and now the members were gagged in the only Parliament they had. Throughout Mr. O'Brien's remarks the Irish members kept up a perfect storm of applause. When Mr. Wyndham, the chief secretary for Ireland, entered the house, the Irish members hissed him loudly and the speaker, who was frequently on his feet

Mr. Lloyd-George, backed up by Irish members, and T. P. O'Connor, brought the excitement to a fever heat, bitterly up-braiding Mr. Balfour for declaring that Irish matters must only be discussed by favor of the English Liberals. Only after a heated colloquy with the speaker was Mr. O'Connor prevented from voicing abuse of Mr. Wyndham and a description of the alarming state of Ireland, which the other Irish members had not touched upon. During the afternoon the speaker's ruling raised renewed clamor from the Irish benches. Members of the House of Lords, as spectators, crowded into the House of Commons in expectation of a scene, for the threats from the Irish benches became more and more audible. The climax came which on all sides was characterized as one of the finest satires ever heard in the House of Commons, Mr. Healy, always as a Ugandan, thanked the premier for his consideration, which enabled the imperial Parliament to devote time to the discussion of native affairs. He complimented Mr. Balfour on being able to sufficiently detach himself so as to be oblivious of the vital disturbances prevailing in "that distant and distressful country, Ireland." In this vein, which irresistibly held the attention of the house, and which caused Mr. Bal-four himself frequent amusement, Mr. Healy completed what a Unionist member defined as "one of the finest satirical indictments" the government had ever under-

Other Nationalist members continued the debate, fiercely declaring that Irish affairs were at present more important to England than any of the matters mentioned in Mr. Balfour's programme.
William Redmond regretted that "the Irish people could not with arms in their hands strike a blow against the violent tyranny to which they were subjected." The present action of the government, he declared, afforded a reason why the Irish members would take the first opportunity of hurling the ministers from office. Ultimately Mr. Balfour moved the closure and the uproar broke out again with renewed vigor. John O'Donnell stood up and refused to give way to the speaker. His fellow-Nationalists shouted encouragement and cheered vigorously. The shook his fist in the speaker's face. 'he house suspended Mr. O'Donnell by a vote

Mr. Balfour smiled quietly as the Irish member shouted and gesticulated. other members of the Cabinet, fearing that Mr. O'Donnell would actually assault the premier, moved towards him, but Mr. O'Donnell, having concluded what he had to say, returned to his seat, and then left the house. Most of the Liberal members of the house voted with the government for the suspension of Mr. O'Donnell, only a few Radicals joining the Irishmen in the "No" lobby.
